CHURCHWIDE:

- The Standing Commission on Liturgy and Music (SCLM) plans to present the 2018 General Convention with four options regarding the possible revision of the 1979 Book of Common Prayer, according to a Dec. 6 media release from the Episcopal Church's Office of Public Affairs.

The options, discussed in detail on the SCLM's blog, are: revision of the prayer book beginning after the 2018 General Convention; creation of a book or books of alternative services beginning after the 2018 General Convention, with no accompanying revision of the prayer book; a postponement of the decision on the prayer book and supplemental resources until the completion of a churchwide conversation on liturgical theology and practice during the 2018-2021 triennium; or, step back from liturgical revision and a commitment to exploring the theology of the current prayer book in greater depth.

Resolution A169 of the 2015 General Convention directed the SCLM to prepare a plan for comprehensive prayer book revision and present that plan to the next General Convention.
