Bishops issue pastoral on suspended time limit
for initiating clergy misconduct cases

Bishop Alan M. Gates and Bishop Gayle E. Harris issued a pastoral letter on Jan. 17 to the people of the diocese regarding the General Convention's three-year suspension of the Episcopal Church canon that places a time limit on initiating proceedings in cases of clergy sexual misconduct against adults. From Jan. 1, 2019, until Dec. 31, 2021, those who wish to bring a case of sexual misconduct against a member of the clergy will be able to do so, regardless of how long ago the alleged misconduct occurred.

The bishops' pastoral letter is to be published in each congregation of the diocese by Sunday, Feb. 17. It is available on the diocesan website here.

In the Diocese of Massachusetts, a recently formed task force has begun work toward additional education and a story-sharing process. More information will be available soon.

“What is truth?”:
Lenten Preaching Series
begins March 7

Pilate’s question to Jesus, “What is truth?” (John 18:38), resonates through the ages, as we each stand before God wrestling with questions of meaning and identity. In our time, the idea of truth is under attack in new ways, challenging our coherence as a society and the witness of the church. This Lent, the annual preaching series at the Cathedral Church of St. Paul (138 Tremont Street) in Boston will feature bishops, scholars, a poet and a journalist engaging the question, “What is truth?” All are welcome.

The series takes place on Thursdays, March 7-April 11, 12-1:30 p.m., featuring a simple worship service with guest sermon, followed by a light lunch and conversation with the preacher:

- March 7: Bishop Gayle E. Harris;
- March 14: Dr. Sally Haslanger—Ford Professor of Philosophy and Women’s and Gender Studies, MIT;
- March 21: Regie Gibson—Poet, writer, educator and National Poetry Slam champion;
- March 28: Dr. Jonathan Cavillo—Assistant Professor, Boston University School of Theology;
- April 4: Matthew Bell—Reporter, Public Radio International’s “The World”; and
- April 11: Bishop Alan M. Gates.

A poster, for downloading and sharing, is available here.
